THREE MT. UNION OFFICERS HURT BY DRUNKEN NEGRO

Eugene Terry, Crazed
by Liquor, Threatened to Shoot Up Town but Bullet Ends His Life.

ONE COP MAY DIE

Huntingdon, Pa., July 9.—Eugene Terry, a negro of Mount Union near here, is dead and three policemen of that town are in a critical condition; all of them in a hospital here as a result of a shooting which occurred there last night.

Terry was intoxicated, it was claimed, and threatened to "shoot up the town" when the three policemen went to arrest him. He opened fire.

Charles E. McCounaughy, one of the policemen, is not expected to live. Cutchall and Miller, the other two officers were said to be badly injured.

WESTERN RAILROAD MEN PLAN ASKING FOR PAY INCREASE

Chicago, July 9.—Western general chairman of the order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen are meeting here today to plan negotiations for a wage increase.

L. Shepard, head of the conductors, said sentiment among the men favored a pay increase. One hundred seventy chairmen are to attend.

Similar action will be taken shortly by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, according to reports in railroad circles.

MRS. BUZZI HEARS SENTENCE OF DEATH WITHOUT A TREMOR

New York, July 9.—Mrs. Anna Buzzi was today sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of Frederick Schneider, wealthy contractor, with whom she had lived eight years.

Mrs. Buzzi heard the sentence without a tremor or change of expression.

Only one woman has ever been electrocuted in this state. Mrs. Buzzi was sentenced to go to the chair the week of August 8th.

NEW LAW FIRM OPENS OFFICES

John C. Arnold, Esq., and A. L. Platt, Esq., have formed a co-partnership for the practice of law and have opened offices in the Keystone building on Second street. While Mr. Arnold is an attorney needs no introduction to the people of Clearfield county, it might be timely to say that the junior member of the firm of Arnold & Platt, is a graduate of a Montana law school where he won his A. B. degree and where he had also been admitted to the practice of law before the supreme court and in the various courts of that state previous to his coming to Clearfield. He was made a member of the Clearfield county bar on Friday last.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATIONS

Congressman W. I. Swoope has been advised by the Post Office Department that examinations will be held at Clearfield on July 28th, 1923 to fill the positions of rural mail carriers at Olatia and Westover, Pa., and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from those post offices. The salary of a rural carrier on a standard daily wagon route of 24 miles is $1,800 per annum, with an additional $30 per mile per year for each mile or major fraction thereof in excess of 24 miles. The salary on motor routes ranges from $2,450 to $2,600 per year, according to length. The examination will be open only to citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of the post office where the vacancy exists.

SEE END OF LABOR SHORTAGE IN STATE IN NEAR FUTURE

Harrisburg, July 9. (United Press.)—The end of the widespread shortage of common labor in Pennsylvania has begun to appear so far as industry is concerned, according to the report of the Department of Labor and Industry from the various employment offices, announced today.

In the western part of the state, reports from Pittsburgh, Erie and Johnstown offices show, there is still a shortage of common labor which is being met in most cases by retarded production.

For the central part of the state, the Harrisburg district reports the supply equal to the demand for common labor.

The beginning of the end of the shortage, however, is noted in the eastern part of the state from the Philadelphia report. "A widespread change has developed during the past week in the common labor situation," this report states.

"While it is too early to state that the supply exceeds the demand, it is nevertheless true that common labor applying at the office is not placed so readily as formerly."

"Employment managers in numerous industries confirm this observation. It applies, however, with greater force to the larger industries. While it can be attributed to some extent to a falling off in the demand, the big factor has been the heavy influx of colored labor from the south which has been brought to the city and surrounding territory by the trainload."

JUSTICE DAY OF SUPREME COURT DIED EARLY TODAY

Cleveland, Ohio, July 9.—William R. Day, former associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, died today at Mackinac Island, Michigan. Attorneys William L. and Luther Day of Cleveland were advised of the death. Day will be buried in Canton, Ohio, Thursday.

CIRCUS DAY IS THE TOPIC ON THE TONGUE OF EVERY KIDDO IN CITY TODAY; SHOW WILL ARRIVE EARLY TOMORROW MORNING

It's the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals that's the topic of the hour for the boys and girls of six as well as those of sixty. The billboards, barns and walls are announcing with all the fluency of pictorial art its coming. And already preparations are being made for the big holiday event of the year. About the time the milkman is making his rounds tomorrow morning the first of the circus trains will be pulling into the railroad yards.

Much is promised by the management of the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals this year, as this is the 100th anniversary tour. The show has reached such a size that it is causing the railroads considerable uneasiness in handling the various trains. European and Oriental representatives have sacked the Continent and the Far East in quest for novelties, and the engaging of performers of ability. The greatest

FIND BODY OF AIR MAN WHO DROPPED IN LAKE ERIE

Port Stanley, Ont., July 9.—The body of Lieutenant Loth, pilot of the naval balloon, wrecked in Lake Erie, was picked up today.

With the recovery of Roth's body, hope for his companion, T. Null, was abandoned. The two men had been missing since last Thursday. Their balloon was found floating in the lake on Saturday. The basket had been cut away but it was hoped the balloonists might have been picked up by some passing boat.

Despondent Mother Shoots Son, Aged 10, And Kills Self

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 9.—In a fit of despondency Mrs. Rose Crawford, 37, shot her 10-year-old son Henry through the heart while he lay asleep early this morning, and then committed suicide at the home of her mother near Leetsdale.

The bodies were discovered by Mr. Jacob Sheffer, mother of the dead woman, the child on the bed and the mother on the floor with a .22 caliber revolver at her side. Worry over separation from her husband is believed to have been the cause of the act.

DRAGGED DERAILED CAR OVER A MILE; DAMAGE IS $10,000

A wreck on the B. & P. railroad Saturday night last caused damage to the track estimated at not less than $10,000. A New York Central coal train out of Rossett was coming down the mountain from Rockton to Curwensville. At Glendale the sixteen car train from the engine left the rails and was hauled clear through to Bloom's Run, more than one mile distant before being discovered. The right hand wheels of the derailed car ran down midway between the rails and cut in two and destroyed every tie from Glendale to Bloom's.

INDIANS OF ALASKA READY WITH KICKS ON HARDING VISIT

With President Harding at Ketchikan, Alaska, July 9.—"It was different in the old days."

A bronze, wrinkled Indian, in the garb of civilization, stood face to face with President Harding and made a plea for his people and the President it being his first trip to Alaska, promised to help.

Mr. Harding ran into the deep problems of this north land; the moment then Henderson arrived—the question of exclusive rights now enjoyed by the canneries. The Indian protest they are unable to catch enough fish to keep their families and earn a living since the canneries set traps in the creeks.

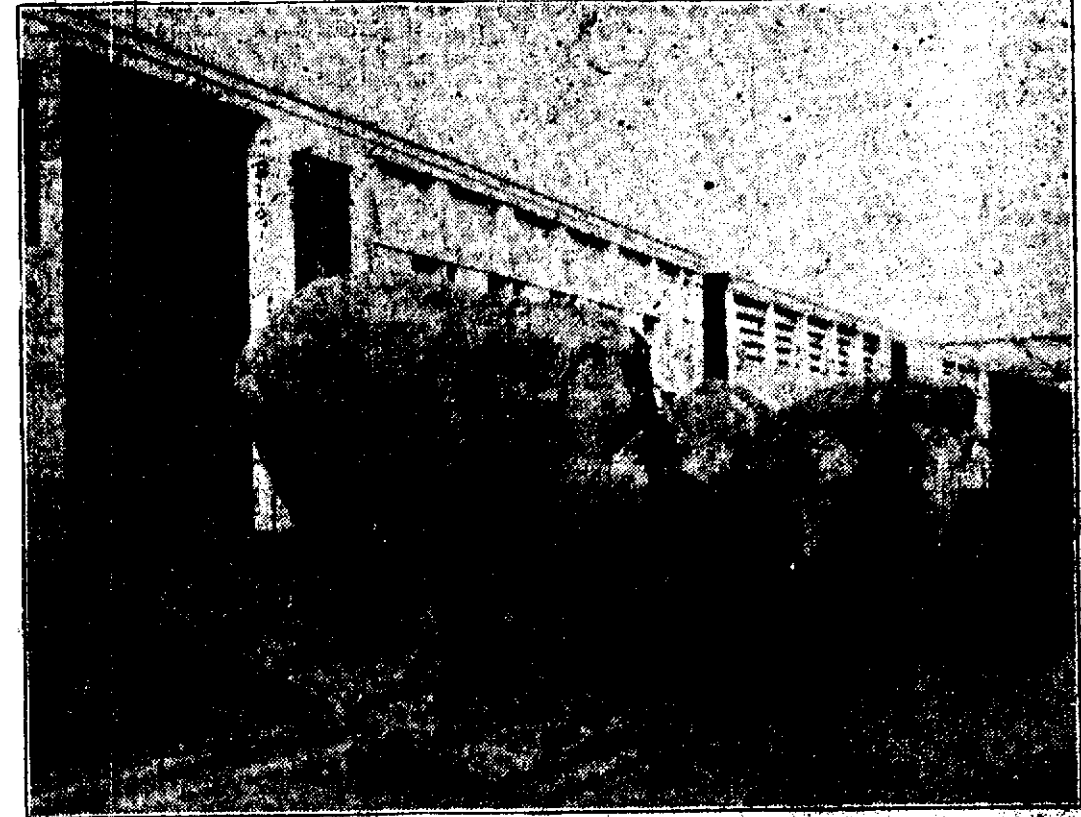

Agreement Between Turks And Allies Reached On Sunday

Lausanne, July 9.—Agreement on all points in dispute was reached by Turks and Allies Sunday and the Lausanne treaty will be signed within a week.

DUEY DID OR DUEY DIDN'T

Argument on the motion for a new trial in the case of Adolf Duey, the Haroun el Raschid of Atlantic City, was made before Judge Bell this morning. Adolf was convicted of violation of the liquor law at May term of criminal court. There was great divergence in the testimony of the two sides at the trial. In fact it might safely be said the state of facts testified to by the commonwealth's witnesses were diametrically opposed to the view taken of affairs by the defense. However, the jury which heard the testimony elected to believe what the commonwealth's witnesses testified to and as a natural consequence decided by their verdict that Adolf did sell the liquor in violation of the law as charged and returned a verdict of guilty.

Upon receipt of the verdict James A. Gleason, attorney for Duey, asked that a new trial be granted and argument this morning was on this motion. District Attorney Arnold argued against the motion.

UNLOADING THE ELEPHANTS WITH THE JOHN ROBINSON CIRCUS, HERE TUESDAY, JULY 10 (TOMORROW)

MAUGHAN BEHIND HIS SCHEDULE BUT HE IS ON HIS WAY

Mitchell Field, Mineola, N. Y., July 9.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan flew with the dawn today, headed for the Pacific Coast, which he hopes to reach before the sun sets there.

The speedy Curtis plane, in which the army pilot is attempting the first coast to coast, dawn to dark flight, hopped upwards from the small dom at 4:58 this morning. Favorable weather conditions were forecasted.

The plane in which he flew is capable of 172 miles an hour. The distance he will cover is 2,570 miles.

M. Cook's Field, Dayton, Ohio, July 9.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan completed the first lap of his dawn to dark flight from New York to San Francisco when he landed his little Curtis pursuit plane here at 9:12 today. The airman was two hours 27 minutes behind his schedule, which called for a landing here at 6:45. Maughan took off for St. Joseph at 9:22 a. m.

Springfield, Ill., July 9.—The airplane piloted by Lieutenant Russell Maughan, attempting a "dawn to dark" transcontinental flight, passed over Springfield at 10:22 a. m. today. It was headed due west.

Will Celebrate GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Kline, respected Third Ward residents, who are native to this section and spent their entire lives in sight of Clearfield, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, July 10th. The celebration will be held in the Clearfield Park, where many of the friends of the couple will gather.

Among the guests will be their son Boyd Kline, who with his wife, motored across the continent from Los Angeles, California, in order to be present on this joyous occasion.

JOHN ROBINSON'S CIRCUS AND TRAINED ANIMALS WILL APPEAR HERE TOMORROW

Business and chains jingling, steady clanging of shod hoofs on the pavements, the rumbling of heavy wagons and the setting of groaning brakes, will indicate to all the residents of Clearfield, who are about early tomorrow morning, that "Circus Day," a combination of July Fourth, Christmas, and numerous other holidays, is once more with us.

Hundreds of boys and girls, and also grown-ups, will be in the railroad yards in great numbers, when the long, gaudily painted trains of the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals roll into town. All of them will tell you that this action marks the arrival of "America's Oldest and Best Circus," now in its 100th anniversary tour of the continent, and that "Circus Day" is the red letter event of the year.

Before many of us have taken the cold shower, and also pulled a mean "Gillette" against the grain of the one or two days' old beard, the great gray tents will be raised toward the morning sky and an army of people and animals fed "on the lot," where curious throngs will eye the swift efficiency and system of the circus folks in amazement.

At 11 a. m. the "grand, gorgeous and magnificent free street parade" will leave the circus grounds, for the downtown thoroughfares. The elephants, the baby hippopotamus, the cages of wild and savage jungle beasts, the glitter and the gold, the red-coated bands, and the prancing steeds, will be seen in seemingly endless procession. There will be patriotic in plenty, it is promised, patriotic, allegorical and gorgeous tableaux wagons, hand carved and gold and silver laden. The camels, the dromedaries, the ladies in spangles, the knights on the proud horses, the time-honored air callopes, and all the wonders of the open-air review are promised, as well as additional novelties that the advance representatives say have never before appeared in a street procession.

The John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals' performances are scheduled for 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. The downtown ticket office will be located at Stewart's Drug Store, where tickets can be purchased at the same price as on the grounds.

Hagen Expected To Stage Come-Back At Golf Tournament

Wood County Club, Long Island, N. Y., July 9.—Perfect weather and a course in the best of condition greeted the 350 entrants in the National Open Golf Championship here today as the first paltry feed off in the qualifying rounds.

Walter Hagen is favored to regain his crown in the finals, having shown a stronger game this year than Gene Sarazen, the present title holder, but Hagen must fight his way through one of the classic fields that has shown in the Open Championship in years. The best of amateurs as well as professionals are competing.

Of the 350 starters in the championship only about 85 or 90 are expected to qualify for the final championship round. The best 18 individual scores and ties shown in today, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will qualify for the finals.

The Foreign Secretary reported today to the cabinet the conversation he had with French, Belgian and Italian ambassadors recently. It is believed that as a result of this Britain has decided to go on alone if necessary to settle the reparation problem in her own way.

TWO DROWN WHEN CANOE UPSETS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 9.—Philip Becker, aged 18, and James Petro, aged 18, were drowned last night in the Susquehanna River when their canoe upset.

Ellsworth Moore, companion of the two victims, was rescued after he had gone down for the third time vainly trying to save Becker.

The trip from Los Angeles to Clearfield, a distance of 3,216 miles, was made in 24 days in a Studebaker car. They had but two punctures during the trip, and no other trouble whatever. It was a wonderful auto ride and they enjoyed it immensely.

SECRETARIES OF SCHOOL BOARDS HAVE NEW DUTY

Must Swear to Own Estimation of True Value of Assessable Property to Get Appropriation

MORE GUESS WORK

Mention was made in these columns several days ago of a bill passed by the last legislature and recently signed by Governor Pinchot, which is designed to render additional help to the poorer school districts in the state. The law governing school appropriations is based upon the value of the taxable property in the different districts, and not the value placed at 50 per cent and a third the assessor.

Every assessor in Pennsylvania has his own idea of values and, for illustration one may assess the taxable property in his bailiwick at 75 per cent of its value, while another may place it as high as 75 per cent. In order to overcome this difference and to arrive at something near actual value the law provides that for the purpose of obtaining the true value upon which to base the state school appropriation the secretary of the school board shall make a statement under oath of what he thinks the actual or true value of the real property in the district is, and it is upon the basis of such valuation that the state appropriation is fixed.

Accordingly the apportionment of the state appropriation provides that for districts having less than $50,000 of true valuation behind or per capita teacher the state shall pay 75 per cent of the minimum teachers' salaries. Districts having between $50,000 and $100,000 per teacher shall receive 60 per cent of the teachers' salaries, while in those districts having more than $100,000 per teacher, the same percentage as was received previous to this year or 50 per cent, shall be paid.

Many rural districts in Clearfield county will profit by the increased payments under the new law.

Youths Who Perjure To Obtain Driver's Licence Due For Fall

Harrisburg, July 7.—Pennsylvania's traffic force will be instructed to pay particular attention to drivers not legally entitled to license, when they begin patrolling the roads within the next few weeks, according to announcement made today by officials of the Highway Department. Arrests recently have revealed that there apparently is a large number of youths in the State who give their ages incorrectly when applying for license. The highway patrol will be instructed to pay particular attention to such cases.

In a recent letter to one youth whose license had been revoked Secretary of Highways, Paul D. Wright pointed out that misstatements of facts when applying for a license renders the person liable to a fine of from $100 to $200. When a youthful holder of a license is arrested for violation of the motor laws the authorities check the age given on the application with that in the school records. If a discrepancy is found and it is established that the applicant gave his or her age incorrectly revocation follows immediately.

ROBINSON SHOW A DANDY

Ralph Jordan, proprietor of the Hotel Jordan, and Clearfield's most persistent circus goer, who is forced by his business to see all circuses the day before or the day after they come to Clearfield, has seen the John Robinson show this season, and is of the opinion that it is the best circus that traveled Pennsylvania this year, and he has seen them all.

TRINITY CHURCH ITEMS

In the Bible School mention was made of the high honors that came to two members because of meritorious work. Miss Margaret Gilliland receives a prize for the best essay on Abraham Lincoln, her competitors numbering more than 1,000 students in the Eighth Grade of the Public Schools of the state of Pennsylvania. Then Thomas Lewis, of the High School was awarded by a state board for the highest scholarship in Clearfield County High Schools a College scholarship for four years.

Class number 15, taught by H. B. Powell, received a letter of special interest, with fine report of work in eight Christian villages clustering around Mazzaffarnaghi, U. P., India and two adjacent villages in which there are 51 inquirers. The native workers, whom this class supports additional to the regular Centenary gifts, Mamai Singh by name, states concerning the Christians in this section, "their spirituality is increasing. They abstain from heathenism and gain firmness and steadfastness by their faith in our Lord Jesus Christ." This letter with its translation was written in the native language. The attendance, 395, was the identical record of the second Sunday of July, 1922, a duplication, already twice noted since April 1; offering in excess.

The morning congregation, in which strangers were numbered from far and near, eight states being represented, listened to an exposition of Matt. 22:41 and following, focusing on "What think ye of Christ?" etc. The answer was sought not in creeds, creed, dogma and decrees of Councils, but in theology or dialectics, but from experience and the facts of consciousness like the blind man's knowledge—and the source of Peter's declaration that Jesus was "the Christ, the Son of the Living God." In the evening the exposition was from the sublime passage in Hebrews 4:14-16 on our "Great High Priest" in His Sinlessness.

Yesterday's music was exceptionally interesting. Mr. S. Keith Davis played a violin selection. The parts taken by the Chorus, Mrs. Gallagher and her sister, Miss Bernice Anderson were given with the usual interpretation and force.

This week's events. Wednesday mid-week congregational meeting followed by both Sunday School Board and Official Board meeting. Thursday evening Woman's Foreign Missionary auxiliary, church. Next Sunday, Holy Communion. Visitation south of Witmer street.

Diakka an Evil Spirit.

Diakka is a very evil and powerful spirit corresponding to some respect with the Jinn. In Mohammedan mythology the Jinn are good and bad spirits who assume the form of animals, etc. In this same mythology there are also the Jannas or Jannas of the lowest order. On old Persian tales they are referred to as the "An" but Longfellow, in his "Golden Age" (Stanza 2) refers to them as belonging to "Aunt's story"—Litt's Digest.

Coloring Ivory.

Braun's Techno-Chemical Receipt Book gives several recipes for coloring ivory yellow. It may be placed in a concentrated solution of potassium chromate, then in a hot solution of sugar of lead. Another method is to place it in a solution of yellow orpiment saturated with ammonia. Another treatment is to mordant the ivory in a solution of stannous sulphide or of alum, then place it in a hot decoction of weld.

Stands Up for Mother.

Martha, age four, was playing in the room where her father and mother were having an argument along the lines of "I'd be in favor of that." "Well, I wouldn't," etc. She stopped playing, went to her father and said: "Now, daddy, I want you to understand that mamma is boss in this house."

SEARCHING THE WORLD FOR MANUFACTURING MATERIAL

Our manufacturers expend over $3,000,000,000 a year for products of other parts of the world.

The growing demand of the manufacturers of the country for material purchased in other parts of the world is illustrated by the latest import figures which indicate that the value of manufacturing material imported in the fiscal year which ended in June, 1923, aggregated nearly 2 1/2 billion dollars, as against an annual average of less than a billion dollars in the years immediately preceding the war.

While higher prices are in part responsible for this increase, it is quite apparent that the quantity of manufacturing material coming from abroad constantly increases.

Compilations made by the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York show that the total value of imports of raw material for use in manufacturing totaled last year which ended with June 30, while manufacturers for further use in manufacturing aggregated about $750,000,000. The very highest record made in the pre-war period was $635,000,000 of raw material imported and $350,000,000 of manufacturing for further use in manufacturing, so that the record of the fiscal year 1923 is about 2 1/2 times as great in stated value as in the highest pre-war year.

Even this high record of nearly 2 1/2 billion dollars of imports in the fiscal year 1923 does not fully measure the sums paid by the manufacturers for foreign material, for the figures which measure our imports represent the cost in the foreign countries from which they are sent to the United States, and when we add the freight across the ocean, the duties paid on entering the country, the profits of the importers and the freights from the port of entry to the door of the factory, it is quite apparent that the manufacturers of the country have paid in the fiscal year just ended considerably more than $3,000,000,000 for the material purchased in other parts of the world.

The material which we draw from other parts of the world is chiefly the product of climatic and labor conditions different from our own. The importations for factory use include rubber, distinctly a tropical product; jute, manila, sisal, also tropical; raw silk, chiefly from China and Japan with large supplies of cheap labor; cotton from Egypt; wool from Argentina and Australia; goatskins from India, China, Africa and the Latin American countries; coconut oil and copra; gums from the tropical forests; tobacco, grown chiefly in the tropical and subtropical climates, and in addition to these products of the soil and the minerals and metals that the tropics find it more convenient in which we import are iron mines, manufacturing, so that the record of the fiscal year 1923 is about 2 1/2 times as great in stated value as in the highest pre-war year.

Fortunately, adds the Trade Record, our manufacturers are able to pay "in kind" for this enormous quantity of manufacturing materials which they must have, for the very countries producing this character of material are not producers of manufactures. The tropics find it more convenient to develop production of their tropical soil and climatic conditions than to give their attention to manufactures and as a consequence they take in exchange for their natural products manufactures produced through the activity of the capital and labor of the north temperate zone and thus our manufacturers are able to exchange the products of their shops for the raw material which they must bring from the tropics. Manufactures form from 75% to 90% of our exports to the tropical countries of the world, and the interchange thus established and maintained between the tropics and the manufacturing section of the United States makes it apparent that the proportion which manufacturing material forms of our imports will continue to increase. The share which raw material for manufacturing forms of our imports is now practically 40% as against 32% of 1880, 32% in 1900 and 35% in the year immediately preceding the war; while on the other hand finished manufactures formed in May of the current year 42% of our exports as against 6% a century ago, 13% in 1870, 16% in 1890, 24% in 1900 and 32% in the year preceding the war.

Our ability, adds the Trade Record, to buy the world's raw material and send it back to the producers in manufactured form is due in no small degree to the willingness of capital to co-operate in the interchanges between the great climatic and industrial sections of the world. The census figures of the capital of the manufacturing industries of the country show an advance from $33,000,000 in 1850 to $44,500,000 in 1900. The stated capitalization of 1919 is 85 times as much as that of 1850, while the factory output of 1919 was 65 times as much as that of 1850.

U. S. COAL COMMISSION

BRIEF SUMMARY OF ANTHRACITE REPORT

Any attempt to analyze the report of the United States Coal Commission in a few words is necessarily imperfect. Some facts of general interest for the busy man may be stated.

Anthracite coal is a limited natural monopoly, one-third of the deposits of which have already been exhausted. As it has long been the fuel of the Northeastern States, it is affected by a public interest. The dissolution of the railroads and the coal mines is so recent that it is yet impossible to say whether the natural monopoly will be in restraint of trade. The Commission opposes Government ownership, but for the purpose of determining the effects of this natural monopoly upon the consumer recommends publicity through annual reports made to some governmental agency on forms prescribed thereby. The increasing cost of mining and distributing coal is traced so that the consumer may know the facts upon which wholesale and retail prices have doubled in ten years. It does not differ from other commodities save that the soaring price did not drop in 1920. The consumer's dollar is analyzed, showing that roughly half of it pays for the coal at the mine, a quarter pays the freight, and a quarter goes to the retail dealer. Of the same dollar 11 or 12 cents are divided as profits between the mine operator and the retailer, the railroad profit not being determined. The item of freight charge is so large that it urges the Interstate Commerce Commission a re-examination of anthracite rates. It discloses that nearly three-quarters of the coal mined is by nine large companies which have a circular ranging from $8.00 to $8.35, running through the year, while the remainder comes from independent companies varying in normal times from $9.00 to $10.00 a ton, and in periods of stress obtaining anything the market will bear. It calls attention to the royalties paid and the large increase of such royalties during the last 10 years. When it comes to the actual mining of the coal it shows that labor cost per ton has advanced since 1913 from $1.56 to $4.12, retaining practically the same relation to total cost, while the cost of supplies has doubled and general expenses nearly trebled. The total cost of a gross ton of all sizes was $5.75 for the railroad mines and $6.32 for certain large independents. In 1913 the relative cost was $2.23 and $2.50, respectively. These averages include steam sizes that sell below cost, as well as the household sizes on which the profit is made. The average cost must be compared with average sales realization on all sizes, not with the market price of domestic sizes. This average in 1913 was $2.63, and in 1923, $6.78. The margin between what it costs to mine the average ton of coal and what it sold for at the mine is the approximate measure of what the operator received for his services.

The Commission fixes no basis for investment, that being a judicial function, but will later state the figures, with relative theories, as to how the investment is to be determined. Throughout the report it insists upon full and continuous publicity through some governmental authority with power to require financial reports, to prescribe uniform methods of cost accounting, and to determine the conditions under which the coal may be shipped in interstate commerce. An extensive study was made of the living conditions of the miners' families, and the wages, earnings and labor conditions of the mine workers form a large part of its report. Earnings are not stated by averages but by classes, the amount earned by these classes, and the days worked to earn the same. Of those who avail themselves of the opportunity to work the year round, the income for a family of five ranges in general from $1500 to $2000. Some exceed this; many fall below it.

The anthracite output has not kept up with the increase in population, nor, unless additional miners' helpers enter the industry, is there hope of increasing the output. The mines are now making a record in the way of production but even yet are not using the mine and breaker to full capacity. If the labor can be found double shifts in the low-cost mines would help to relieve the situation. Improved practices in the use of anthracite are urged, and recommendations made to reduce the number of market sizes, for better inspection of coal so as to guarantee quality, and the larger use of substitutes. The consumer can create a demand for substitutes that will serve as one form of insurance against unjust combinations of either labor or capital and the consequent rising prices.

It finds the legal right to exist of a man to work as he pleases. It finds also the right of collective bargaining, but observes that in actual practice that neither of these rights is left unobstructed. It insists that collective bargaining implies collective holding under the guise of fixing wages and working conditions a campaign to advance a political theory should not be waged. It insists that collective bargaining implies collective keeping of the bargain, and suggests penalties for the breach thereof in any new agreement entered into. It offers a number of suggestions looking towards bridging the operator and miner together, in a more friendly spirit and for the speedier adjustment of differences than now exists.

It recommends that the anthracite contract shall not expire at the same time the bituminous one does, and that the contract shall provide for its renewal except as to any subjects which either side may desire to review and of which notice is given 90 days before the expiration of the contract. If they have not agreed 60 days before such expiration, they shall report all the facts in controversy to the President of the United States who shall appoint one or more persons to investigate the controverted facts and make a public report thereon prior to the expiration of the contract.

It also recommends that the Congress shall give the President authority, in the event of the cessation of operations, to declare an emergency, take possession of the mines, fix wages and the compensation to be paid the owner, subject to review by the Courts, and to distribute the product as he deems wise and just.

COURT NOTES

Another Clearfield attorney, who learned this morning that while the surreptitious peddling of moonshine and other ardent spirits may be a lucrative occupation as long as the illicit vendors manage to escape detection by the authorities and avoid the such violation of the law, they always come to a day of reckoning when the weight of the law is brought to bear upon them. In this case, the court has just rendered a decision in the case of the State vs. John J. Smith, et al., which was brought against them by the State for the same offense. The court found them guilty and sentenced them to the penitentiary for a term of years.

Frank Callan, one of the Atlantic Coast Builders who fell into the hands of the law last spring and was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of years, has just been granted a parole by Judge Bell on March 10, 1923. He is now at large and is expected to return to his home in the county. He was arrested for selling moonshine through his connection with the State vs. John J. Smith, et al., which was brought against them by the State for the same offense. The court found them guilty and sentenced them to the penitentiary for a term of years.

Progress Editorial For Women

SCAPOLAMIN, NOT FOR US
By FLORENCE DAVIES

What do you suppose would happen if a hostess at an afternoon tea should put a big dose of scapolamin in the punch?

Scapolamin, as you know, is the drug they have been talking about, which is supposed to make people tell the truth!

My, what a wagging of tongues there would be at that tea. The first thing you know some woman would say right out in meeting just what she was thinking about some other woman's gown, and you would find yourself admitting that the last thing on earth that you wanted to do was to come to that tea but you just had to come to be decent.

Take it all in all, the game of truth, played wholesale after that fashion, might stir up a good deal of excitement.

That makes it look as if society was founded on a fabric of lies. But not so fast. Before you decide that we all need to pass around this mysterious drug, suppose we decide just what we mean by truth.

Perhaps some of the things that we imagine are lies, the little polite evasions which go to make up social intercourse, aren't half as much lies as the bald truth would be if it were blurted out on every occasion.

For every time a woman smiles and says she is having a delightful time, when in reality she wishes to goodness that she were at home in peace and quiet reading a book, we needn't decide that she is telling a lie. True enough, she does wish she were at home. But there is a large truth, of which even she herself is hardly aware, which makes her smile and tell you this stupid old tea is a lovely affair.

That large truth is her underlying desire to be a good citizen, to play her part in the world of things as they are, and to help make the wheels of society run smoothly.

She may not think this all out when she resorts to some of the small evasions of everyday life, but the fact that she makes the effort to resort to them only goes to prove that she is willing to master her first impulses for the happiness of society.

And so this drug which only makes people speak the truth by rendering them unable to evade it, wouldn't be such a righteous thing to introduce into the world, after all.

It would, in fact, be a very destructive thing. We don't need it half as much as we think we do.

Nothing is finer than fundamental sincerity. No drug is needed to bring it out, and no drug could create it in people who haven't it.

You could never be fooled for long by a person who is without this fine underlying sincerity of purpose and character, nor would a person who has it remain for long in a false light.

As for the superficial evasions, which stand for that layer of self control we expect for the sake of the peace of mind of those around it, we are better with them than without them.

The ability to put on a smiling face to appear pleased when we would find it easy to be disagreeable, may be a veneer, but it is a beneficial veneer which civilization has evolved, and it is not wholly to its discredit.

So don't order up this mysterious drug in large doses. The police may find it useful. But it is just as well that our neighbors are without it.

NASH SHIPS MORE CARS PER WORKING DAY IN JUNE THAN IN MAY

Shipping more cars per working day in June than in May, Nash Motors finished the first six months of 1923 with a total of 32,343 passenger automobiles.

"While we produced more cars per working day in June than in May, the total June shipments fell just 73 cars short of the total for the previous month," said E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of The Nash Motors Company. "The reason lies in the fact that there were 28 1/2 working days in June as against 24 full working days in May."

"In actual figures Nash Motors shipped 6,135 passenger cars in June as against 6,208 in May, the record month in Nash history. The shipments for June exceeded those of June 1922 by 1334 cars and they preceded April of this year by 110 cars."

TOO MUCH WATER

The Clearfield American Legion baseball club went over to Punxsutawney Friday afternoon and engaged nine baseball warriors representing "Gust Town" and came out with the short end of the string on a 4-6 score.

It was a heart-breaker to lose, too, because our own led right up into the ninth inning, when Fagan gunned the stacks by slamming a homer into the swamp, with a runner or two on the bases ahead of him.

The game was played on a field surrounded by water, the Punxsutawney boys all having grown webbed feet were able to splash around in the water to better effect than the visitors and this fact, together with Fagan's

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, of Cumberland, Maryland and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stevens of Fallsburg, W. Va., spent the week end at the Lutheran parsonage.

She Was "Jilted."

When I was in the fifth grade at school there was a boy who was very fond of me. Every morning I found some candy in my desk. At Christmas I received a large box of candy from him. This pleased me very much, but his candy didn't last long. After Christmas our room received a new member. She was beautiful and immediately caught his eye. Every morning after her arrival there no longer was candy in my desk, but in hers. —Chicago Journal.

His New Dignity.

Betty and Dick had a new neighbor and Betty seemed to find the rooming party. One day when Dick had been unusually mischievous, she said: "Dickie, have you found out just how persistent moping, spelled our downfall.

Modern Greeks.

The present-day Greeks are supposed to be the descendants of the men who won Marathon and Salamis. Of course the breed of modern Greeks (as is true about every other people) is somewhat mixed, but there is much in the Greeks of today to remind us of the men who built the Parthenon.

But Not So Easy to Train.

HORSESHOE PITCHERS COMING TO FRONT

News from the Horseshoe Club is growing more plentiful. The first real pitching in which the West Side has taken part came of Friday night on the Pine street court when Witherow and Hixon played Condriet and Dender of East End and beat them by a small margin. Smith of 2nd and Flint of 4th Wards pitched a friendly little non-schedule game on the side, two of the three game going to Smith. W. H. Witherow the West Side membership chairman, took in four new men, who should shortly be joined by the long line of pitchers who upheld the reputation of the Ward last season. There are a number of men pitching here and there who can't seem to see the advantage of boosting the town organization and putting some real pep and competition into the game. It is hoped that there will soon be a change of heart. The next schedule game will be on Monday evening on the 12th St. court, East End, when the last three games of the Smith-Johnson series will be played off.

There will be an interesting game on the side as Mr. Johnson brings his son down from Grampian to pitch Harold Stiffler, a young East Ender who is showing signs of being good.

At an early date, probably Tuesday, Witherow and Hixon will return last night's game on the East End court, pitching their opponents of last night. There will be further announcement of this. The biggest news of all is that a challenge has been sent through the Horseshoe World to pitch any and every team or individual in Pennsylvania who will take it up. If any visitors appear there should be some real excitement on the courts.

Playground News

The two schedule horseshoe games were pitched Friday afternoon in spite of rain. Reedsville went over the hill to East End and were timed. West Side went to Witherow Park, losing three games straight.

The next games will be tonight instead of Tuesday, setting up a dry account of the circus. East End will go to West Side and Witherow Park to Reedsville. The boys will do well to study up the rules as well as

40 States Accept Maternity Protection

By WILLIAM J. LOSH

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 9.—Thousands of lives of mothers and their babies have been saved during the period of approximately one year that the Sheppard-Towner maternity act has been in operation, according to officials of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor here, which is in charge of the administration of the act.

In this first year of the life of the act much has occurred to encourage the women of the country who supported and finally won the proposal that the federal government get behind, better education of mothers, both before and after birth.

"We have found the women in all parts of the country pathetically eager for the instruction offered under the maternity act," officials of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor said.

These officials admit that there have been scoffers at the act and active antagonists against it on the ground that the federal government is becoming too paternalistic. But for the most part the opposition to the maternity act is said to be dwindling fast.

The Women Walked Out.

As an example of the antagonism to the maternity act, a report received here states that at a meeting for the instruction of mothers in a rural district of the south, half a dozen women stalked out of the room when the instructor began speaking with the parting statement: "The Lord gives and the Lord takes away, and it's not for us to thwart Him."

However, the southern states are in the vanguard of progress under the maternity act. All the southern states except Louisiana have accepted the federal act and have been actively engaged in the work. This contrasts with New England, where so far only New Hampshire has accepted the maternity act.

Of the entire country forty states have now accepted the terms of the act. The eight that have not accepted are Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Beaten in Supreme Court.

Massachusetts brought a suit contending that the maternity act was unconstitutional, and a woman of Boston entered suit as a taxpayer attacking the act. But the Supreme Court recently handed down a decision dismissing both of these cases for want of jurisdiction.

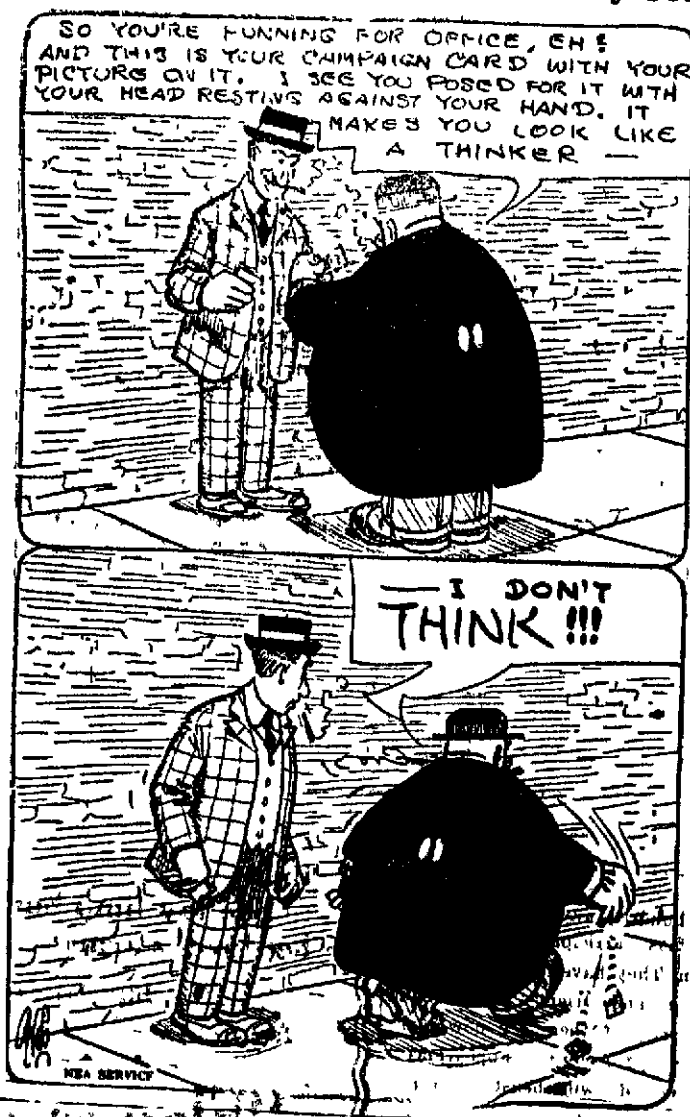

Friends of the maternity act say that one great argument for the law is the fact that the latest available figures for maternity mortality in the United States and foreign countries show that the United States is far ahead of almost all of these countries in the number of deaths of mothers at childbirth, showing the need of some measure such as this act.

Does the Sahara Reclaim?
Some day the world will get out of the Sahara and the good will be to offer among the desert sands near Siakha last year, the French had over eight hundred wells giving life and fruitage to 1,500,000 date palms. There is a chance for immense development of the date industry all along the north and edges of the desert south of Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia. Frank R. Carr, a conservative and authoritative writer, says that in time probably a tenth of the Sahara will be reclaimed for human usefulness.

The Part of Missing Men. Scarcely a week passes without news being conveyed to the world that some man or woman has dropped out of sight. They are recorded among the missing and are rarely heard of afterward. Sometimes it is because they desire to sever all ties and to seek new pastures. In such cases the man or woman merely slips out of the old life and into the new, and no one can find a trace of them.

A CITY OF MAGIC AND ENCHANTMENT WILL BE SEEN UNDER TENT

Never in the annals of circus history has such a pretentious and original amusement enterprise ever been projected as the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals, which is now making its 100th anniversary tour and which appears here tomorrow and which appears here tomorrow. In its present size, including a three-ringed circus, trained wild animals and hippodrome features, this mighty show is continuing to set the pace, just as it did fifty or a hundred years ago.

The best features of the circus, as it is generally known, have been retained but there is so much else that is novel, that the John Robinson circus, as now presented, demanded recognition as an amusement institution without competition in the tented field. Under the big tents will be presented two complete and distinctive shows, blended into a gigantic and harmonious whole. The services of 700 people, 500 horses, and the largest and rarest assemblage of animals ever seen in one collection, are necessary for the pageant, "Peter Pan in Animal Land," and the performances, given, including a three ring circus and a trained wild animal show.

Two hundred arena champions in every class participate in the program. They have been trained in European and Oriental arenas and the majority of them are now making their first American appearance.

The trained wild beast performances will be given in a huge steel arena and will be intermingled with the circus acts in such a manner as to give pleasing novelty to the programs. The menagerie contains a specimen of every living animal of land or water. The grand free street parade at 11 o'clock in the morning contains more open dens and marvelous tableaux wagons and floats, than offered the public in any other open-air review.

Device for Counting Threads. A new linen tester for counting the threads in the fabric is designed with a movable pulster, which makes this work easier. The device consists of the usual two parallel surfaces held a few inches apart with the magnifying glass in the upper surface, while in the opening of the lower plane has been arranged a movable pointer to indicate the threads as they are counted.

JORDAN'S

DRISS NOTIONS

FOR VACATIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor of the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

New York N. Y., July 9 (United Press)—NO GIRL WEARS HER HEART on her sleeve these days. But the practical tennis girl wears her cute little handkerchief on her sleeve. She has a tiny pocket made in the sleeve of her crepe de chene, a dress whose chief attractions are color, short sleeves, bateau neck and full skirt gathered into an elastic waistband.

Color has taken possession of the tennis court, as white has been declared taboo because it is unbecoming to most girls and because it soils so easily. The head bandana matches the shade of the tennis frock this year and no hats are worn except, now and then, a soft little affair of white felt. Yellow, tan, jade and old blue are favorite colors of the tennis girl.

FEW YEARS AGO no one would have planned a trip without first planning the traveling suit and purchasing several white blouses. While the traveling suit is still worn by winter tourists it has no place in the wardrobe of the summer traveler. Nothing could be more uncomfortable than a tailored suit with a white blouse for traveling in the summer months. One needs clothes with loose lines and with sleeves loose at the wrists and the dark one-piece dress has both of these qualifications. Of course there must be an accompanying jacquette, a short cape or a topcoat as the wearer prefers.

For an ocean voyage I should recommend a topcoat, two dark gowns, one of silk crepe and one of a light weight cloth material, two dinner dresses of lace or some equally uncrushable material, a dancing frock and two sport jacquettes with separate skirts for morning wear. This list can be augmented according to

WHEN GIFT TIME COMES

There are many, many times when the right thing to do is to give some little gift as a reminder of some important occasion. It may be the arrival into this world of a very young person, it may be the marking of the passing years of some mature person, it may be the anniversary of some real event in the lives of someone near and dear to you.

Remember this. You will always find something appropriate here for just such occasions and you will also find that they are priced in a way that makes it easy for you to make the gift without financial embarrassment.

A party of local business men, who were kids once themselves, headed by "Pop" Wilson of the H. & C. Telephone Co., have taken it upon themselves to see that all hands from the Home get to the show.

ONE COP MAY DIE

Huntingdon, Pa., July 9.—Eugene Terry, a negro of Mount Union near here, is dead and three policemen of that town are in a critical condition; all of them in a hospital here as a result of a shooting which occurred there last night.

Terry was intoxicated, it was claimed, and threatened to "shoot up the town" when the three policemen went to arrest him. He opened fire.

Charles E. McCounaughy, one of the policemen, is not expected to live. Cutchall and Miller, the other two officers were said to be badly injured.

NEW LAW FIRM OPENS OFFICES

John C. Arnold, Esq., and A. L. Platt, Esq., have formed a co-partnership for the practice of law and have opened offices in the Keystone building on Second street. While Mr. Arnold is an attorney needs no introduction to the people of Clearfield county, it might be timely to say that the junior member of the firm of Arnold & Platt, is a graduate of a Montana law school where he won his A. B. degree and where he had also been admitted to the practice of law before the supreme court and in the various courts of that state previous to his coming to Clearfield. He was made a member of the Clearfield county bar on Friday last.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATIONS

Congressman W. I. Swoope has been advised by the Post Office Department that examinations will be held at Clearfield on July 28th, 1923 to fill the positions of rural mail carriers at Olatia and Westover, Pa., and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from those post offices. The salary of a rural carrier on a standard daily wagon route of 24 miles is $1,800 per annum, with an additional $30 per mile per year for each mile or major fraction thereof in excess of 24 miles. The salary on motor routes ranges from $2,450 to $2,600 per year, according to length. The examination will be open only to citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of the post office where the vacancy exists.

SEE END OF LABOR SHORTAGE IN STATE IN NEAR FUTURE

Harrisburg, July 9. (United Press.)—The end of the widespread shortage of common labor in Pennsylvania has begun to appear so far as industry is concerned, according to the report of the Department of Labor and Industry from the various employment offices, announced today.

In the western part of the state, reports from Pittsburgh, Erie and Johnstown offices show, there is still a shortage of common labor which is being met in most cases by retarded production.

For the central part of the state, the Harrisburg district reports the supply equal to the demand for common labor.

The beginning of the end of the shortage, however, is noted in the eastern part of the state from the Philadelphia report. "A widespread change has developed during the past week in the common labor situation," this report states.

"While it is too early to state that the supply exceeds the demand, it is nevertheless true that common labor applying at the office is not placed so readily as formerly."

"Employment managers in numerous industries confirm this observation. It applies, however, with greater force to the larger industries. While it can be attributed to some extent to a falling off in the demand, the big factor has been the heavy influx of colored labor from the south which has been brought to the city and surrounding territory by the railroad."

JUSTICE DAY OF SUPREME COURT DIED EARLY TODAY

NEW LAW FIRM OPENS OFFICES

Cleveland, Ohio, July 9.—William R. Day, former associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, died today at Mackinac Island, Michigan. Attorneys William L. and Luther Day of Cleveland were advised of the death. Day will be buried in Canton, Ohio, Thursday.

CIRCUS DAY IS THE TOPIC ON THE TONGUE OF EVERY KIDDO IN CITY TODAY; SHOW WILL ARRIVE EARLY TOMORROW MORNING

It's the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals that's the topic of the hour for the boys and girls of six as well as those of sixty. The billboards, barns and walls are announcing with all the fluency of pictorial art its coming. And already preparations are being made for the big holiday event of the year. About the time the milkman is making his rounds tomorrow morning the first of the circus trains will be pulling into the railroad yards.

FIND BODY OF AIR MAN WHO DROPPED IN LAKE ERIE

Port Stanley, Ont., July 9.—The body of Lieutenant Loth, pilot of the naval balloon, wrecked in Lake Erie, was picked up today.

With the recovery of Roth's body, hope for his companion, T. Null, was abandoned. The two men had been missing since last Thursday. Their balloon was found floating in the lake on Saturday. The basket had been cut away but it was hoped the balloonists might have been picked up by some passing boat.

Despondent Mother Shoots Son, Aged 10, And Kills Self

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 9.—In a fit of despondency Mrs. Rose Crawford, 37, shot her 10-year-old son Henry through the heart while he lay asleep early this morning, and then committed suicide at the home of her mother near Leetsdale.

The bodies were discovered by Mr. Jacob Sheffer, mother of the dead woman, the child on the bed and the mother on the floor with a .22 caliber revolver at her side. Worry over separation from her husband is believed to have been the cause of the act.

DRAGGED DERAILED CAR OVER A MILE; DAMAGE IS $10,000

A wreck on the B. & P. railroad Saturday night last caused damage to the track estimated at not less than $10,000. A New York Central coal train out of Rossett was coming down the mountain from Rockton to Curwensville. At Glendale the sixteen car train from the engine left the rails and was hauled clear through to Bloom's Run, more than one mile distant before being discovered. The right hand wheels of the derailed car ran down midway between the rails and cut in two and destroyed every tie from Glendale to Bloom's.

INDIANS OF ALASKA READY WITH KICKS ON HARDING VISIT

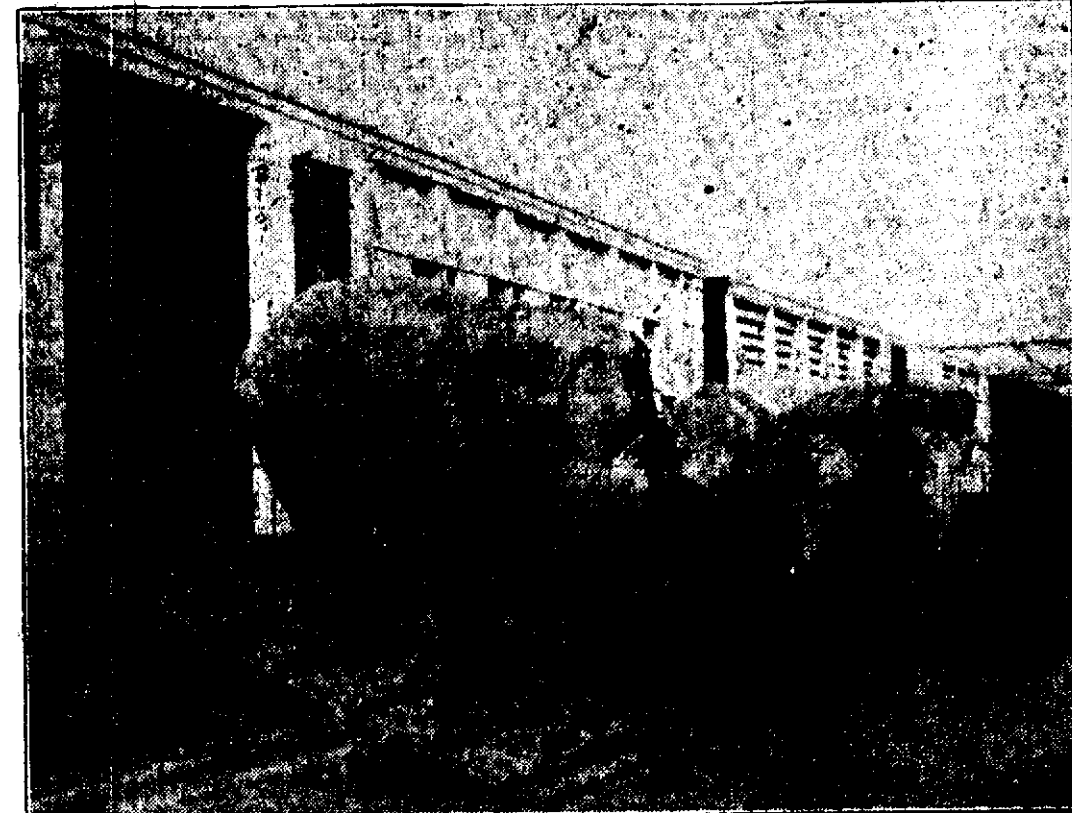

With President Harding at Ketchikan, Alaska, July 9.—"It was different in the old days."

A bronze, wrinkled Indian, in the garb of civilization, stood face to face with President Harding and made a plea for his people and the President it being his first trip to Alaska, promised to help.

Mr. Harding ran into the deep problems of this north land; the moment then Henderson arrived—the question of exclusive rights now enjoyed by the canneries. The Indian protest they are unable to catch enough fish to keep their families and earn a living since the canneries set traps in the creeks.

MAUGHAN BEHIND HIS SCHEDULE BUT HE IS ON HIS WAY

Mitchell Field, Mineola, N. Y., July 9.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan flew with the dawn today, headed for the Pacific Coast, which he hopes to reach before the sun sets there.

The speedy Curtis plane, in which the army pilot is attempting the first coast to coast, dawn to dark flight, hopped upwards from the small dome at 4:58 this morning. Favorable weather conditions were forecasted.

The plane in which he flew is capable of 172 miles an hour. The distance he will cover is 2,570 miles.

M. Cook's Field, Dayton, Ohio, July 9.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan completed the first lap of his dawn to dark flight from New York to San Francisco when he landed his little Curtis pursuit plane here at 9:12 today. The airman was two hours 27 minutes behind his schedule, which called for a landing here at 6:45. Maughan took off for St. Joseph at 9:22 a. m.

Springfield, Ill., July 9.—The airplane piloted by Lieutenant Russell Maughan, attempting a "dawn to dark" transcontinental flight, passed over Springfield at 10:22 a. m. today. It was headed due west.

DUEY DID OR DUEY DIDN'T

Argument on the motion for a new trial in the case of Adolf Duey, the Haroun el Raschid of Atlantic City, was made before Judge Bell this morning. Adolf was convicted of violation of the liquor law at May term of criminal court. There was great divergence in the testimony of the two sides at the trial. In fact it might safely be said the state of facts testified to by the commonwealth's witnesses were diametrically opposed to the view taken of affairs by the defense. However, the jury which heard the testimony elected to believe what the commonwealth's witnesses testified to and as a natural consequence decided by their verdict that Adolf did sell the liquor in violation of the law as charged and returned a verdict of guilty.

Business and chains jingling, steady clanging of shod hoofs on the pavements, the rumbling of heavy wagons and the setting of groaning brakes, will indicate to all the residents of Clearfield, who are about early tomorrow morning, that "Circus Day," a combination of July Fourth, Christmas, and numerous other holidays, is once more with us.

Hundreds of boys and girls, and also grown-ups, will be in the railroad yards in great numbers, when the long, gaudily painted trains of the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals roll into town. All of them will tell you that this action marks the arrival of "America's Oldest and Best Circus," now in its 100th anniversary tour of the continent, and that "Circus Day" is the red letter event of the year.

Before many of us have taken the cold shower, and also pulled a mean "Gillette" against the grain of the one or two days' old beard, the great gray tents will be raised toward the morning sky and an army of people and animals fed "on the lot," where curious throngs will eye the swift efficiency and system of the circus folk in amazement.

At 11 a. m. the "grand, gorgeous and magnificent free street parade" will leave the circus grounds, for the downtown thoroughfares. The elephants, the baby hippopotamus, the cages of wild and savage jungle beasts, the glitter and the gold, the red-coated bands, and the prancing steeds, will be seen in seemingly endless procession. There will be patriotism in plenty, it is promised, patriotic, allegorical and gorgeous tableaux wagons, hand carved and gold and silver leafed. The camels, the dromedaries, the ladies in spangles, the knights on the proud horses, the time-honored air callopes, and all the wonders of the open-air review are promised, as well as additional novelties that the advance representatives say have never before appeared in a street procession.

The John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals' performances are scheduled for 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. The downtown ticket office will be located at Stewart's Drug Store, where tickets can be purchased at the same price as on the grounds.

Hagen Expected To Stage Come-Back At Golf Tournament

Wood County Club, Long Island, N. Y., July 9.—Perfect weather and a course in the best of condition greeted the 350 entrants in the National Open Golf Championship here today as the first paltry feed off in the qualifying rounds.

Walter Hagen is favored to regain his crown in the finals, having shown a stronger game this year than Gene Sarazen, the present title holder, but Hagen must fight his way through one of the classic fields that has shown in the Open Championship in years. The best of amateurs as well as professionals are competing. Of the 350 starters in the championship only about 85 or 90 are expected to qualify for the final championship round. The best 18 individual scores and ties shown in today, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will qualify for the finals.

SECRETARIES OF SCHOOL BOARDS HAVE NEW DUTY

Must Swear to Own Estimation of True Value of Assessable Property to Get Appropriation

MORE GUESS WORK

Mention was made in these columns several days ago of a bill passed by the last legislature and recently signed by Governor Pinchot, which is designed to render additional help to the poorer school districts in the state. The law governing school appropriations is based upon the value of the taxable property in the different districts, and not the value placed at 50 per cent and a third the assessor.

Every assessor in Pennsylvania has his own idea of values and, for illustration one may assess the taxable property in his bailiwick at 75 per cent of its value, while another may place it as high as 75 per cent. In order to overcome this difference and to arrive at something near actual value the law provides that for the purpose of obtaining the true value upon which to base the state school appropriation the secretary of the school board shall make a statement under oath of what he thinks the actual or true value of the real property in the district is, and it is upon the basis of such valuation that the state appropriation is fixed.

Accordingly the apportionment of the state appropriation provides that for districts having less than $50,000 of true valuation behind or per capita teacher the state shall pay 75 per cent of the minimum teachers' salaries. Districts having between $50,000 and $100,000 per teacher shall receive 60 per cent of the teachers' salaries, while in those districts having more than $100,000 per teacher, the same percentage as was received previous to this year or 50 per cent, shall be paid.

Many rural districts in Clearfield county will profit by the increased payments under the new law.

Youths Who Perjure To Obtain Driver's Licence Due For Fall

Harrisburg, July 7.—Pennsylvania's traffic force will be instructed to pay particular attention to drivers not legally entitled to license, when they begin patrolling the roads within the next few weeks, according to announcement made today by officials of the Highway Department. Arrests recently have revealed that there apparently is a large number of youths in the State who give their ages incorrectly when applying for license. The highway patrol will be instructed to pay particular attention to such cases.

In a recent letter to one youth whose license had been revoked Secretary of Highways, Paul D. Wright pointed out that misstatements of facts when applying for a license renders the person liable to a fine of from $100 to $200. When a youthful holder of a license is arrested for violation of the motor laws the authorities check the age given on the application with that in the school records. If a discrepancy is found and it is established that the applicant gave his or her age incorrectly revocation follows immediately.

ROBINSON SHOW A DANDY

Ralph Jordan, proprietor of the Hotel Jordan, and Clearfield's most persistent circus goer, who is forced by his business to see all circuses the day before or the day after they come to Clearfield, has seen the John Robinson show this season, and is of the opinion that it is the best circus that traveled Pennsylvania this year, and he has seen them all.

U. S. COAL COMMISSION

BRIEF SUMMARY OF ANTHRACITE REPORT

Any attempt to analyze the report of the United States Coal Commission in a few words is necessarily imperfect. Some facts of general interest for the busy man may be stated.

Anthracite coal is a limited natural monopoly, one-third of the deposits of which have already been exhausted. As it has long been the fuel of the Northeastern States, it is affected by a public interest. The dissolution of the railroads and the coal mines is so recent that it is yet impossible to say whether the natural monopoly will be in restraint of trade. The Commission opposes Government ownership, but for the purpose of determining the effects of this natural monopoly upon the consumer recommends publicity through annual reports made to some governmental agency on forms prescribed thereby. The increasing cost of mining and distributing coal is traced so that the consumer may know the facts upon which wholesale and retail prices have doubled in ten years. It does not differ from other commodities save that the soaring price did not drop in 1920. The consumer's dollar is analyzed, showing that roughly half of it pays for the coal at the mine, a quarter pays the freight, and a quarter goes to the retail dealer. Of the same dollar 11 or 12 cents are divided as profits between the mine operator and the retailer, the railroad profit not being determined. The item of freight charge is so large that it urges the Interstate Commerce Commission a re-examination of anthracite rates. It discloses that nearly three-quarters of the coal mined is by nine large companies which have a circular ranging from $8.00 to $8.35, running through the year, while the remainder comes from independent companies varying in normal times from $9.00 to $10.00 a ton, and in periods of stress obtaining anything the market will bear. It calls attention to the royalties paid and the large increase of such royalties during the last 10 years. When it comes to the actual mining of the coal it shows that labor cost per ton has advanced since 1913 from $1.56 to $4.12, retaining practically the same relation to total cost, while the cost of supplies has doubled and general expenses nearly trebled. The total cost of a gross ton of all sizes was $5.75 for the railroad mines and $6.32 for certain large independents. In 1913 the relative cost was $2.23 and $2.50, respectively. These averages include steam sizes that sell below cost, as well as the household sizes on which the profit is made. The average cost must be compared with average sales realization on all sizes, not with the market price of domestic sizes. This average in 1913 was $2.63, and in 1923, $6.78. The margin between what it costs to mine the average ton of coal and what it sold for at the mine is the approximate measure of what the operator received for his services.

The Commission fixes no basis for investment, that being a judicial function, but will later state the figures, with relative theories, as to how the investment is to be determined. Throughout the report it insists upon full and continuous publicity through some governmental authority with power to require financial reports, to prescribe uniform methods of cost accounting, and to determine the conditions under which the coal may be shipped in interstate commerce. An extensive study was made of the living conditions of the miners' families, and the wages, earnings and labor conditions of the mine workers form a large part of its report. Earnings are not stated by averages but by classes, the amount earned by these classes, and the days worked to earn the same. Of those who avail themselves of the opportunity to work the year round, the income for a family of five ranges in general from $1500 to $2000. Some exceed this; many fall below it.

The anthracite output has not kept up with the increase in population, nor, unless additional miners' helpers enter the industry, is there hope of increasing the output. The mines are now making a record in the way of production but even yet are not using the mine and breaker to full capacity. If the labor can be found double shifts in the low-cost mines would help to relieve the situation. Improved practices in the use of anthracite are urged, and recommendations made to reduce the number of market sizes, for better inspection of coal so as to guarantee quality, and the larger use of substitutes. The consumer can create a demand for substitutes that will serve as one form of insurance against unjust combinations of either labor or capital and the consequent rising prices.

It finds the legal right to exist of a man to work as he pleases. It finds also the right of collective bargaining, but observes that in actual practice that neither of these rights is left unobstructed. It insists that collective bargaining implies collective holding under the guise of fixing wages and working conditions a campaign to advance a political theory should not be waged. It insists that collective bargaining implies collective keeping of the bargain, and suggests penalties for the breach thereof in any new agreement entered into. It offers a number of suggestions looking towards bridging the operator and miner together, in a more friendly spirit and for the speedier adjustment of differences than now exists.

It recommends that the anthracite contract shall not expire at the same time the bituminous one does, and that the contract shall provide for its renewal except as to any subjects which either side may desire to review and of which notice is given 90 days before the expiration of the contract. If they have not agreed 60 days before such expiration, they shall report all the facts in controversy to the President of the United States who shall appoint one or more persons to investigate the controverted facts and make a public report thereon prior to the expiration of the contract.

It also recommends that the Congress shall give the President authority, in the event of the cessation of operations, to declare an emergency, take possession of the mines, fix wages and the compensation to be paid the owner, subject to review by the Courts, and to distribute the product as he deems wise and just.

COURT NOTES

Another Clearfield attorney, who learned this morning that while the surreptitious peddling of moonshine and other ardent spirits may be a lucrative occupation as long as the illicit vendors manage to escape detection by the authorities and avoid the such violation of the law, they always tempt a day of retribution when the justice of the law is made manifest. In this case, the court has ordered the arrest of the defendant, who is charged with the sale of moonshine, and the court has ordered the seizure of the property involved in the case.

Progress Editorial For Women

SCAPOLAMIN, NOT FOR US

By FLORENCE DAVIES

What do you suppose would happen if a hostess at an afternoon tea should put a big dose of scapolamin in the punch?

Scapolamin, as you know, is the drug they have been talking about, which is supposed to make people tell the truth!

My, what a wagging of tongues there would be at that tea. The first thing you know some woman would say right out in meeting just what she was thinking about some other woman's gown, and you would find yourself admitting that the last thing on earth that you wanted to do was to come to that tea but you just had to come to be decent.

Take it all in all, the game of truth, played wholesale after that fashion, might stir up a good deal of excitement.

That makes it look as if society was founded on a fabric of lies.

But not so fast. Before you decide that we all need to pass around this mysterious drug, suppose we decide just what we mean by truth.

Perhaps some of the things that we imagine are lies, the little polite evasions which go to make up social intercourse, aren't half as much lies as the bald truth would be if it were blurted out on every occasion.

For every time a woman smiles and says she is having a delightful time, when in reality she wishes to goodness that she were at home in peace and quiet reading a book, we needn't decide that she is telling a lie. True enough, she does wish she were at home. But there is a large truth, of which even she herself is hardly aware, which makes her smile and tell you this stupid old tea is a lovely affair.

That large truth is her underlying desire to be a good citizen, to play her part in the world of things as they are, and to help make the wheels of society run smoothly.

She may not think this all out when she resorts to some of the small evasions of everyday life, but the fact that she makes the effort to resort to them only goes to prove that she is willing to master her first impulses for the happiness of society.

And so this drug which only makes people speak the truth by rendering them unable to evade it, wouldn't be such a righteous thing to introduce into the world, after all.

It would, in fact, be a very destructive thing. We don't need it half as much as we think we do.

Nothing is finer than fundamental sincerity. No drug is needed to bring it out, and no drug could create it in people who haven't it.

You could never be fooled for long by a person who is without this fine underlying sincerity of purpose and character, nor would a person who has it remain for long in a false light.

As for the superficial evasions, which stand for that layer of self control we expect for the sake of the peace of mind of those around it, we are better with them than without them.

The ability to put on a smiling face to appear pleased when we would find it easy to be disagreeable, may be a veneer, but it is a beneficial veneer which civilization has evolved, and it is not wholly to its discredit.

So don't order up this mysterious drug in large doses. The police may find it useful. But it is just as well that our neighbors are without it.

NASH SHIPS MORE CARS PER WORKING DAY IN JUNE THAN IN MAY

Shipping more cars per working day in June than in May, Nash Motors finished the first six months of 1923 with a total of 32,343 passenger automobiles.

"While we produced more cars per working day in June than in May, the total June shipments fell just 73 cars short of the total for the previous month," said E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of The Nash Motors Company. "The reason lies in the fact that there were 28 1/2 working days in June as against 24 full working days in May."

"In actual figures Nash Motors shipped 6,135 passenger cars in June as against 6,208 in May, the record month in Nash history. The shipments for June exceeded those of June 1922 by 1334 cars and they preceded April of this year by 110 cars."

TOO MUCH WATER

The Clearfield American Legion baseball club went over to Punxsutawney Friday afternoon and engaged nine baseball warriors representing "Gust Town" and came out with the short end of the string on a 4-6 score.

It was a heart-breaker to lose, too, because our own led right up into the ninth inning, when Fagan gunned the stacks by slamming a homer into the swamp, with a runner or two on the bases ahead of him.

The game was played on a field surrounded by water, the Punxsutawney boys all having grown webbed feet were able to splash around in the water to better effect than the visitors and this fact, together with Fagan's

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, of Cumberland, Maryland and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stevens of Fallsburg, W. Va., spent the week end at the Lutheran parsonage.

She Was "Jilted."

When I was in the fifth grade at school there was a boy who was very fond of me. Every morning I found some candy in my desk. At Christmas I received a large box of candy from him. This pleased me very much, but his candy didn't last long. After Christmas our room received a new member. She was beautiful and immediately caught his eye. Every morning after her arrival there no longer was candy in my desk, but in hers. —Chicago Journal.

His New Dignity.

Betty and Dick had a new neighbor and Betty seemed to find the rooming party. One day when Dick had been unusually mischievous, she said "Dickie have you found out just how

The next time Clearfield goes to Punxsutawney, they will take row boats along for the outfielders.

Heberling pounced a bat off his step in batting practice and will be out of the line-up for several days.

Adrian here Monday. The fans ask for more games and are expected to turn out.

Bum base running has caused the loss of almost every game credited against the team. "Skull fract sc" seems to be the crying need.

Modern Greeks.

The present-day Greeks are supposed to be the descendants of the men who won Marathon and Salamis. Of course the breed of modern Greeks (as is true about every other people) is somewhat mixed, but there is much in the Greeks of today to remind us of the men who built the Parthenon.

HORSESHOE PITCHERS COMING TO FRONT

News from the Horseshoe Club is growing more plentiful. The first real pitching in which the West Side has taken part came of Friday night on the Pine street court when Withrow and Hixon played Condict and Dender of East End and beat them by a small margin. Smith of 2nd and Flint of 4th Wards pitched a friendly little non-schedule game on the side, two of the three game going to Smith. W. H. Withrow the West Side membership chairman, took in four new men, who should shortly be joined by the long line of pitchers who upheld the reputation of the Ward last season. There are a number of men pitching here and there who can't seem to see the advantage of boosting the town organization and putting some real pop and competition into the game. It is hoped that there will soon be a change of heart. The next schedule game will be on Monday evening on the 12th St. court, East End, when the last three games of the Smith-Johnson series will be played off. There will be an interesting game on the side as Mr. Johnson brings his son down from Grampian to pitch Harold Stiffler, a young East Ender who is showing signs of being good. At an early date, probably Tuesday, Withrow and Hixon will return last night's game on the East End court, pitching their opponents of last night. There will be further announcement of this. The biggest news of all is that a challenge has been sent through the Horseshoe World to pitch any and every team or individual in Pennsylvania who will take it up. If any visitors appear there should be some real excitement on the courts.

Playground News

The two schedule horseshoe games were pitched Friday afternoon in spite of rain. Reedsville went over the hill to East End and were timed. West Side went to Witmur Park, losing three games straight. The next games will be tonight instead of Tuesday, setting up a dry account of the circus. East End will go to West Side and Witmur Park to Reedsville. The boys will do well to study up the rules as well as

40 States Accept Maternity Protection

By WILLIAM J. LOSH

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 9.—Thousands of lives of mothers and their babies have been saved during the period of approximately one year that the Sheppard-Towner maternity act has been in operation, according to officials of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor here, which is in charge of the administration of the act.

In this first year of the life of the act much has occurred to encourage the women of the country who supported and finally won the proposal that the federal government get behind, better education of mothers, both before and after birth.

"We have found the women in all parts of the country pathetically eager for the instruction offered under the maternity act," officials of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor said.

These officials admit that there have been scoffers at the act and active antagonists against it on the ground that the federal government is becoming too paternalistic. But for the most part the opposition to the maternity act is said to be dwindling fast.

The Women Walked Out.

As an example of the antagonism to the maternity act, a report received here states that at a meeting for the instruction of mothers in a rural district of the south, half a dozen women stalked out of the room when the instructor began speaking with the parting statement: "The Lord gives and the Lord takes away, and it's not for us to thwart Him."

However, the southern states are in the vanguard of progress under the maternity act. All the southern states except Louisiana have accepted the federal act and have been actively engaged in the work. This contrasts with New England, where so far only New Hampshire has accepted the maternity act.

Of the entire country forty states have now accepted the terms of the act. The eight that have not accepted are Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Beaten in Supreme Court.

Massachusetts brought a suit contending that the maternity act was unconstitutional, and a woman of Boston entered suit as a taxpayer attacking the act. But the Supreme Court recently handed down a decision dismissing both of these cases for want of jurisdiction.

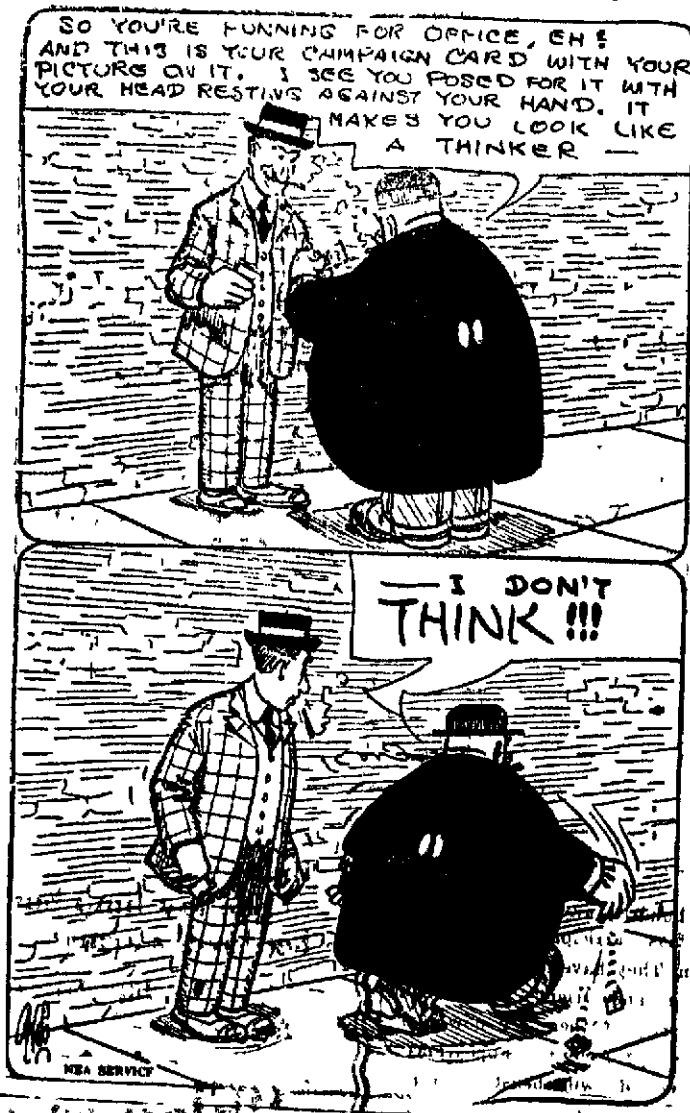

Friends of the maternity act say that one great argument for the law is the fact that the latest available figures for maternity mortality in the United States and foreign countries show that the United States is far ahead of almost all of these countries in the number of deaths of mothers at childbirth, showing the need of some measure such as this act.

Does the Sahara Reclaim?
Some day the world will get out of the Sahara and the good will be to offer among the desert sands near Siakha last year, the French had over eight hundred wells giving life and fruitage to 1,500,000 date palms. There is a chance for immense development of the date industry all along the north and edges of the desert south of Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia. Frank R. Carr, a conservative and authoritative writer, says that in time probably a tenth of the Sahara will be reclaimed for human usefulness.

The Part of Missing Men. Scarcely a week passes without news being conveyed to the world that some man or woman has dropped out of sight. They are recorded among the missing and are rarely heard of afterward. Sometimes it is because they desire to sever all ties and to seek new pastures. In such cases the man or woman merely slips out of the old life and into the new, and no one can find a trace of them.

A CITY OF MAGIC AND ENCHANTMENT WILL BE SEEN UNDER TENT

Never in the annals of circus history has such a pretentious and original amusement enterprise ever been projected as the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals, which is now making its 100th anniversary tour and which appears here tomorrow and which appears here tomorrow in its present size, including a three-ringed circus, trained wild animals and hippodrome features, this mighty show is continuing to set the pace, just as it did fifty or a hundred years ago.

The best features of the circus, as it is generally known, have been retained but there is so much else that is novel, that the John Robinson circus, as now presented, demanded recognition as an amusement institution without competition in the tented field. Under the big tents will be presented two complete and distinctive shows, blended into a gigantic and harmonious whole. The services of 700 people, 500 horses, and the largest and rarest assemblage of animals ever seen in one collection, are necessary for the pageant, "Peter Pan in Animal Land," and the performances, given, including a three ring circus and a trained wild animal show.

Two hundred arenic classes participate in the program. They have been taught European and Oriental acrobatics and the majority of them are now making their first American appearance. The trained wild beast performances will be given in a huge steel arena and will be intermingled with the circus acts in such a manner as to give pleasing novelty to the programs. The menagerie contains a specimen of every living animal of land or water. The grand free street parade at 11 o'clock in the morning contains more open dens and marvelous tableaux wagons and floats, than offered the public in any other open-air review.

DRISS NOTIONS

FOR VACATIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor of the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

New York N. Y., July 9 (United Press)—NO GIRL WEARS HER HEART on her sleeve these days. But the practical tennis girl wears her cute little handkerchief on her sleeve. She has a tiny pocket made in the sleeve of her crepe de chene, a dress whose chief attractions are color, short sleeves, bateau neck and full skirt gathered into an elastic waistband.

Color has taken possession of the tennis court, as white has been declared taboo because it is unbecoming to most girls and because it soils so easily. The head bandana matches the shade of the tennis frock this year and no hats are worn except, now and then, a soft little affair of white felt. Yellow, tan, jade and old blue are favorite colors of the tennis girl.

FEW YEARS AGO no one would have planned a trip without first planning the traveling suit and purchasing several white blouses. While the traveling suit is still worn by winter tourists it has no place in the wardrobe of the summer traveler. Nothing could be more uncomfortable than a tailored suit with a white blouse for traveling in the summer months. One needs clothes with loose lines and with sleeves loose at the wrists and the dark one-piece dress has both of these qualifications. Of course there must be an accompanying jacquette, a short cape or a topcoat as the wearer prefers.

For an ocean voyage I should recommend a topcoat, two dark gowns, one of silk crepe and one of a light weight cloth material, two dinner dresses of lace or some equally uncrushable material, a dancing frock and two sport jacquettes with separate skirts for morning wear. This list can be augmented according to

There are many, many times when the right thing to do is to give some little gift as a reminder of some important occasion. It may be the arrival into this world of a very young person, it may be the marking of the passing years of some mature person, it may be the anniversary of some real event in the lives of someone near and dear to you.

Remember this. You will always find something appropriate here for just such occasions and you will also find that they are priced in a way that makes it easy for you to make the gift without financial embarrassment.
